Summer is really here with Folk on the Lawn and the Wellness Festival

With such wonderful community support for the events at Abbey Mill in July, it's hard not to feel grateful for what a special place Tintern is. Enjoying music, learning about wellbeing, and just the opportunity to come together for these unique festivals is something truly worth celebrating. And the garden and art at the Wye Valley Sculpture garden is another of Tintern's hidden gems too.

And looking ahead to August, it's time to get working on your entry for the Village Show. Nurture those flowers and vegetables, so they are at their peak on 1 August and perfect your cookery entries. A schedule of the judging classes is included with Garden Club article. New in the Photography, Art and Handicrafts section is a Transformation Challenge – an item made from repurposed material.

The Garden club will visit the garden at Salts Lodge, Ancre Hill Lane, Monmouth on Tuesday July 14 at 6.30pm. The Women's Institute meets on Wednesday 8 July at 7.30pm at the Llandogo Village Hall.

Tintern Film Night on Friday 10 July will show One Battle After Another, about washed-up former revolutionary who is brought back into conflict when his enemy resurfaces after sixteen years. The film won it six out of the thirteen Academy awards it was nominated for including Best Picture, Best Director, Best Supporting Actor. Note that the starting time is 7:00pm due to the length of the film.

The Tintern Local Produce Market is on Saturday 11 July.

Join the Brigade-hosted Breakfast at St Michael's church on Sunday 19 July at 10:30. On Tuesday 14 July at 7-9 pm there will be an informal time of prayer and worship. This is a gentle, reflective time, all are welcome to come. The Bible study group meets on 7 and 21 July at 7:30 in the church.

The last St Mary's Churchyard session of the summer takes place on 25 July, 10.30am–12.30pm, including some bracken-bashing using coppiced hazel wands. Everyone is very welcome.

The message from Stella & Roses Books rings true. Do take advantage of the shops, services and restaurants we have in Tintern. Stop in and see what is new. The person serving you may be the same person who helps organise a village event, sponsors a local team, or volunteers at the Village Hall. Our businesses are woven into the fabric of Tintern life, helping to create the friendly, connected atmosphere that makes it feel like home.

Every time we choose to buy locally, we help keep our village vibrant and thriving. Without local support, it is much harder for small businesses to survive, and we'd sorely miss them if they were gone.

Folk on the Lawn 2026, by Jon Airdrie and Toni Harvey

Folk on the Lawn (FotL) returns to the Abbey Mill, from the afternoon of Thursday 9 through Sunday 12 July, bringing one of its most eclectic line ups to date. Long celebrated for its independent spirit and commitment to artistic integrity, the festival once again gathers an array of musicians, poets, comedians, writers and – for the first time this year – photographers (our own David Hurn), with the work of all reflecting the breadth and vitality of, very much, a broad church folk-expression. There were many more applicants to perform this year and 35 of the best artists were selected for three stages over the four days.

We are so lucky to have this music festival on our doorstep, and thanks to the Abbey Mill for hosting it! And unlike the recent Devauden Festival, with expensive tickets and standing room only in the tents, you can bring a lawn chair and soak in the family-friendly days and exciting evening sets at FotL. Many of the same performers performed at Devauden! There are no tickets for FotL and there are no entry gates (It's an open site). Just make a donation of your choice at the 'donation's tent'. This could be contactless or with cash. You will then be given a wristband (so they don't ask you to donate again) and you can drop in anytime – and your donations all goes to the artists. Raffle tickets for great prizes are also on sale to help fund the event. The children's activity tent is free and near to the River stage, so you can keep an eye on them while enjoying the show.

Jon Airdrie is one of the artists, as well being on the selection panel, so he can't really share his favourites, but I've had a browse through the lineup (https://folkonthelawn.com/lineup) and know which acts I'm not going to miss. These are just my picks, just to pique your interest…. find your own!

Lots of singer-songwriters, who are perfect for the FotL relaxed vibe. Photo is of Polly Steadman, new this year. I think I'll enjoy Tom Price Stephens and I hope that Vernon Equinox plays his song about the Wye. I also I like the sound of Rowan Stewart's 'dream folk pop' style, whatever that is. MG Boulter was great last year and I'm fascinated by the pedal looping that D Dyer will be doing – 'mixing synth, musical saw, sax, harp, household objects and mycelial networks into live loops'.

This year there are two local Morris Dancing sides at FotT - Vagabond Border, bringing progressive traditions https://www.vagabondbm.co.uk/ and returning Isca Morris who are recruiting new members, if trying Morris Dancing has always interested you https://isca-morris.co.uk/. (photo)

I'd like to see comedian Jeff Japers (photo) and last year Sarah M Davies' poetry about everyday life resonated with me.

There will be great folk bands - contemporary to the traditional. I'm going to enjoy old favourites, like our local band, Rob Connolly, hot off the Tintern Fete, who have added a new member on keyboards, fiddle and tin whistle. And of course, Jon's band, Pieces of Work.

You'll recognise Simon Cottle's amazing classical guitar playing, but it's mixed in with social, political and ecological themed vocals in Kahlo After Frida.

I hope The Rohan (photo) plays some bluegrass! I want to hear live the beautiful River Wye Suite by Sproatly Smith.

Like the Blues? Luke Philbrick and the Solid Gone Skiffle Invasion's vocals, finger-picking guitar, double bass, clarinet, harp and violin might tug on your heartstrings and make your foot uncontrollably tap.

The Magic Lantern Band with vocals, acoustic guitar, tenor sax, electric guitar, bass and drums will play alternative rock, psychedelia, folk, soul, funk, indie, soul... all of those?? Got to see them.

I love LunaBarge, a double-stomping, energetic, uplifting, indie-folk duo with a banjo, guitar, ukulele, 2 voices & 2 stomp boxes. They sing about the little things in life that make it worth living and it's fun!

New this year is a discussion panel, titled How Does A Song Happen? Writing and performing songs is something Folk on the Lawn musicians have been doing for years. We'll hear three different artists reflecting on their craft and how they got into music in the first place. Get the inside view of what it's like to be a singer-songwriter, with all its joys and challenges!

Our celebrated village photographer, David Hurn, will be interviewed and asked about some of his amazing photos, so if you enjoyed his talk at the Village Hall last year, he'll share more stories and photographs about the people he's worked with.

And for the first time at FotL, there will be a couple of open mic times on Friday so here's your chance to break into the big time…. And kids love the tent with toys and sand and masks to colour.

It's really hard to choose with such a broad mix of music and culture, so come anytime and see what's happening in all three tents before you set out your lawn chair. You're sure to find hidden gems and discover that live music – the connection between the artist and the audience, has an emotional response (good and bad!) far different than just listening to recordings. Come and see for yourself.

Jon wants to say that the artists and organiser are grateful for the support of the village with regard to the FotL festival. Everyone is kind and tolerant, with some going 'beyond' in providing resources, publicity and volunteering practical help… as well as by attending. Thank you.

Summer in Tintern - and why it matters that you're here

There are few places quite like Tintern in summer. The valley fills with green, the river catches the light in that particular way it only does in July, and the village hums with a quiet kind of life that is genuinely hard to find anywhere else. We are lucky to live and work here, and we don't take it for granted for a moment.

But beautiful places need people in them to survive. The independent shops, the cafés, the small businesses tucked along the road through the village - we are all here because people choose to visit, to stop, to spend a little time and a little money in a place they love. When footfall drops, we all feel it. When visitors come, we all benefit.

So, if you live locally, this is a gentle nudge. Pop into the shops you haven't visited in a while. Recommend Tintern to friends and family looking for a day out this summer. Leave a kind review online. Like and share our posts on social media - it costs nothing and genuinely helps push the village out to a wider audience.

We are a community, and communities thrive when they look after one another. Tintern is worth looking after.

You'll find us here as always - eight rooms of books, a warm welcome, and very probably a wagging tail or two to greet you.

Join the Legal Action to protect the River Wye

Affected members of the community are bringing a collective legal action against Dŵr Cymru Welsh Water and companies within the Avara Foods Poultry Group for their alleged role in polluting the Rivers Wye, Lugg and Usk. The Claimants are represented by leading environmental law firm, Leigh Day.

A legal claim, which is the largest of its kind ever brought over pollution of the UK environment, has been issued in the High Court. More than 4,500 people in the region who believe they have been affected by the pollution have signed up to join the claim.

One group who are reporting particularly severe impacts from the pollution is property holders.

Living near the Rivers, sewerage works or intensive poultry units, you may have noticed stronger odours, more insects, or changes in water quality. Some claimants report these issues have made outdoor spaces harder to enjoy, or that property values have suffered.

If you live near the River Wye, Lugg, Usk or any of their tributaries and river pollution has reduced your enjoyment of your property or use of your riparian rights, or caused the value of your property to decline, you may be entitled to compensation.

Find out more at https://www.leighday.co. uk/our-services/group-claims/river-wyeclaim/.

Together we can help save the Wye, Lugg and Usk. Join the claim today.

Friends of the River Wye update, by Nick Day

A River Charter
The launch of the River Wye Charter in May marks a landmark moment for the future of our river and for the growing 'Rights of Nature' movement across the UK. We now have a dedicated page for the Charter on our website (friendsoftheriverwye.org.uk).

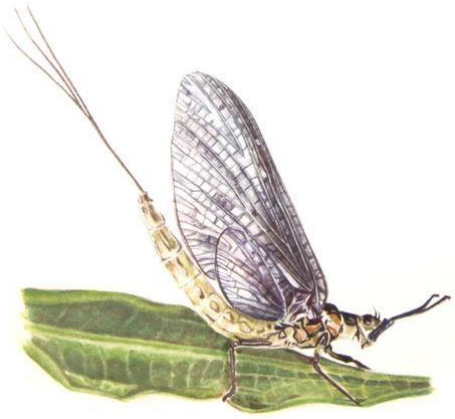

For Friends of the River Wye, this represents a hopeful and significant step forward. The Wye has become a national symbol of ecological decline, suffering from pollution, biodiversity loss and the increasing impacts of climate change. But this Charter reflects a growing understanding that the river is not simply a resource to be exploited, but a living system upon which communities, wildlife and future generations depend.

The strength of this initiative lies in the broad alliance behind it — communities, campaigners, councils, national parks and environmental organisations coming together with a shared commitment to the Wye's recovery. While the Charter alone will not solve the river's many challenges, it provides a powerful framework for stewardship, responsibility and hope.

Moving forward, there are already efforts being made to use the framework of the charter and the intent behind it to engage with all parties involved, towards developing/refining regulation, and to engage with monitoring/ enforcement of the existing rules... There has been considerable interest in the Charter nationally, and this 'contagion' sounds very positive!

The Big Ranunculus Watch 2026
Friends of the River Wye are asking everyone to share any photos they have of ranunculus from across the Wye catchment - both current and historical. We will use this data to map the presence of water crowfoot through time so we can better understand if and where this plant is recovering or if it is still in decline.
As part of this project, we'll also be training Citizen Scientists to undertake habitat and macrophyte surveys, to monitor the presence of water crowfoot in the rivers over the next three summers, starting this year. Visit the website and watch the brilliant film made by Mykyta Osadchyi to be inspired, and if you are interested in getting involved, please fill in the expression of interest form at the website.

Riverfly Training Session & Citizen Science Blitz

In early May we ran another 'Riverfly' training session in conjunction with Herefordshire Wildlife Trust, training a group of local volunteers to carry out biological testing of the river. This is such an exciting addition to our citizen science monitoring and offers more valuable data on river health. It will help us see links between our (largely chemical) existing citizen science data and the biological and ecological state of the river. We thank all the volunteers who have stepped up to undertake this work.
Our brilliant citizen scientists also conducted one of their blitz days on May 28th; all testing together to get a detailed picture of the river at a specific moment in time. Perhaps most interesting and concerning were the very high water temperatures recorded throughout the catchment, with a high of 28.7 recorded near Monmouth. While coarse fish species are more resilient to temperature extremes than the more specialised species for which the river is particularly celebrated, even they will be struggling at these temperatures. This is a reminder of the climate pressures the entire planet is under.

New Appointments and Thanks
We have successfully appointed three new people to our core team: Katie Driver as Ranunculus Project Lead, Eamon Bourke as Lead Communicator, and Forrest Lawrence as new Citizen Science Volunteer Coordinator and Communicator. Friends of the River Wye would also like to thank all those who applied to work with us and all those who came to meet us for the interviews. We were overwhelmed by the brilliant response and by the excellent candidates who applied. We hope that all of those who were interested in the different positions will stay close to the organisation and help us champion the Wye and her sister rivers.
Thank you all for your support.

Tintern Talks

If you are deaf or hard of hearing, you may previously have struggled to hear events in the village hall — but not anymore! A new professional sound system has been installed, with microphones, wall-mounted speakers, and a hearing loop compatible with hearing aids. The result is crystal-clear sound throughout the hall, making talks easier and more enjoyable for everyone.

Installation was perfectly timed for our biggest audience yet, gathered to hear bestselling historian Professor Ronald Hutton speak about the ancient pagans of Monmouthshire. No one wanted to miss an evening with such an entertaining and knowledgeable speaker and the audience was not disappointed.

We may not know exactly what those mysterious ancients were up to, but Professor Hutton's fascinating insights certainly gave us plenty to think about. We are delighted that he will return on Tuesday 8 June 2027 to share the latest theories and discoveries. Tickets are already selling fast, with a third gone already.

Harold's Stones, Trellech

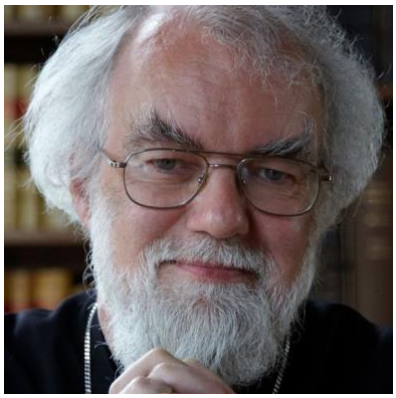

Upcoming Talks

Friday 4 September: Andrew Ziminski – A Life in Ruins

Master stonemason Andrew Ziminski, bestselling author of Building Britain and Church Going (The Times 'Book of the Year' 2025), will share stories from his forty-year career restoring some of Britain's most remarkable buildings. From Neolithic stones and Roman temples to cathedrals, mills and aqueducts, Andrew will reveal how these structures were built, how they are repaired, and what they tell us about our landscape and history.

Friday 2 October: An Evening with Rowan Williams

Former Archbishop of Canterbury and poet Rowan Williams joins performance poet and podcaster Pele Cox for an evening of poetry, reflection and conversation. Rowan will share readings from his own work alongside poems that have inspired him. This uplifting event celebrates the connection between poetry, spirituality and the human experience — from our deepest griefs to our greatest joys.
This is a joint fundraiser with the community-run Monmouth Savoy Theatre and will take place there.

Friday 6 November: Miranda Aldhouse-Green – Cauldron of the Gods: Welsh Archaeology and Myth

Historian and broadcaster Professor Miranda Aldhouse-Green (Time Team) will explore the ancient roots of Welsh mythology through medieval texts, sculptures, carvings and archaeological discoveries dating back more than a thousand years. These stories are not only thrilling tales, but also timeless explorations of human fears, hopes and desires — guided safely by the storyteller to their conclusion.

Online tickets are available from:

- Rowan Williams event: www.monmouth-savoy.co.uk
- Village hall events: www.ticketsource.com/lwvbpt

St Mary's

We are now entering the final phase of purchasing St Mary's from the Crown and have commissioned further surveys with building archaeologists Archaeodomus. These surveys are costly but essential in helping us plan future repairs and understand the structure's condition.

Although the ruin itself remains closed to the public, we continue working to make the churchyard a beautiful and welcoming place to visit.

Last year, volunteers from the Wye Valley National Landscape helped clear brambles that had spread across nearly a fifth of the churchyard. This month, their hard work was rewarded with a stunning display of foxgloves. Once the flowers have seeded, we will cut them back, manage the returning brambles and, hopefully, enjoy an even larger display next year.

Our final volunteer session of the summer takes place on 25 July, 10.30am–12.30pm, including some bracken-bashing using coppiced hazel wands. Everyone is very welcome.

"I volunteer each month throughout Monmouthshire and nowhere is as nice as St Mary's."
— Mike Davies, National Landscape Volunteer

Women's Institute by Gilly Flashman

Wow! What a warm lovely month we're having! There's no stopping us with visits and trips galore, not to mention some gripping reads with a visit by local author Justine Pullan. So, what have we been up to and what's coming up?

The Amblers were out late on a nature walk, they may take slower flatter paths but their love of nature and all spotting things special in our valley is unrivalled! Fancy seeing the Llandogo night landscape – apart from white flowers which gleam in the dark. Birds can be identified by their song, and possibly their silhouettes. We only walk about half a mile, and need torches to see the path coming back. Moths, bats, frogs and slugs cross the path and we have seen foxes, badgers, a polecat, hedgehogs and deer.

There was a visit to Chepstow races to support a charity event for Jamie's Farm. The weather was beautiful and a few managed a win on the horses. A grand day out as Gromit would say!
You can see some of our past visits and talks on our Facebook page (just search Llandogo WI). There're some great days out planned, dinners, walks. You'll find a very warm welcome at 7.30pm every 2nd Wednesday of the month at Llandogo Village Hall. Our next meeting will have a visit from NFRSA a fabulous charity who support retired dogs and horses from our services.

You can contact us via the QR code, our facebook page or by phoning Jill on 07718 518922. Hope to meet you soon!

Tintern Garden Club, by Judith Dudley

Members of the Garden Club enjoyed a lovely evening visit to "The Patch" at Brockweir on 16 June. This is a fairly small garden but packed with interesting plants, extremely well-tended and with beautiful views across the valley. The weather had been threatening rain all day but managed to stay dry for us and we were able to sit in the garden to enjoy tea and wonderful cakes, made by our hostess, Mrs Immy Lee, who also answered our many questions about the garden. This is a lovely garden to visit and opens for the NGS scheme.

News from Parva Farm Vineyard

Our best news this month is that our sheepdog, Mint, has had 7 puppies. Unfortunately, she had to have a caesarean, but she and the puppies are doing well. We plan to keep one for ourselves but how do you choose which one? They are all so cute!

Other than looking after puppies, we welcomed lots of visitors to the vineyard for free vineyard tours and wine tastings during Welsh Wine week. The rest of our time has been taken up with trying to keep the vines tidy as the hot weather caused a huge growth spurt and they have got a bit out of control! They are flowering at the moment so we are praying for nice weather and then there should be a good crop of grapes.

It is also time to sell the bulls. We have to say goodbye to them as there are young ones coming along. We always hope they will find good homes when they leave us.

The Vineyard shop is open Saturdays, Sundays and bank holidays from 12.00 until 4.30pm. There are self-guided vineyard tours and wine tastings. We also sell local cider, perry, ales and honey as well as our wine and lots of home-grown garden plants.

Tintern Church Lads and Church Girls Brigade, By Caitlin Morgan

The Brigade had an early start for this year's Trooping the Colour, setting off at 5:30am for an exciting day in London. The children loved travelling on the Tube and taking in all the sights and sounds of the city.

We were lucky to have our own place in the youth enclosure, giving us fantastic views of the parade and the spectacular flypast.

We even got the chance to wave to the Royal Family as they passed by!

A real highlight of the day was meeting one of the King's Guards, who kindly let the children try on his hat – much to everyone's delight.

After the ceremony, we spent some time exploring London before heading home. It was a fantastic day and a memorable experience for everyone who attended.

The Brigade Breakfast at St Michael's Church last month was a special one, also celebrating Father's Day. With singing and Bible readings and wonderful Waitrose croissants, everyone had a great time.

Do come and join us for the next Brigade Breakfast on Sunday 19 July at 10:30.
